WHAT MAKES IT MEANINGFUL

Baking or Cooking can be done virtually either by yourself or with friends. You can learn new techniques while improving your current skills in the kitchen. You will be able to ask questions and get feedback from your virtual instructor. Best of all you will be able to eat and enjoy the food that you made.

TIME

Depending on the type of class you can typically expect to reserve 2 hours to 4 hours depending on what is being made.

INSTRUCTIONS

1. Plan a day/time for this activity to take place. Keep in mind the length of the class.
2. Invite your friends, family, and acquaintances.
3. Decide who will purchase tickets for the group or if each member will purchase their own.
4. Book the class.
5. Purchase the class and print or email the confirmation to yourself and to the group members, if necessary.
6. Use the zoom meeting ID or google meet ID invite to join the class. This will be emailed to you and your group members. Pass it along via email if someone did not receive it.
7. Mark the date and time of the class in your calendar.
8. Check to see if baking supplies need to be purchased. If so, pick a day to go out and get the supplies in advance of the class.
9. Prepare questions for the Q/A session.
10. Send reminders to your group the day before to remind them of the class.
11. Join the class on the date you set and have fun.

SUPPORTS NEEDED

This activity can be done individually or with a group. It requires skills necessary to log-in and join the zoom or google meet tour. Verbal and visual prompts can assist the individual in successfully joining the tour. The student attending may need to have 1:1 support to assist them in the kitchen when needed and to help aide them in learning techniques or completing certain steps.

OTHER THINGS TO NOTE:

Virtual Background: Ensure the space behind you is clutter free and appropriate for other group members to see. You can utilize virtual backgrounds so other members do not see your personal space.

Audio: Please ensure you mute yourself during the class. Background noises can be distracting to your classmates or the instructor and make it difficult to follow along. Unmute yourself when you have been called upon to share your questions or comments.

Questions: Make a list of questions you have that you would like answered during the live Q/A session of the class. This can be done in advance of the class and during the class as you learn more about cooking or baking.
